1. It is considered possible that the project of building Rugen into a major naval base will be abandoned in favor of placing the base at Stettin. Indications pointing in this direction are the recall of the construction staff from Rugen to Berlin on 25 March 1953, where they received orders for the limitation of the work on Rugen, and were told that Stettin would receive higher priority.
2. After the return of the staff to Rugen part of the work on both Rugen harbor and the barracks at Prora was stopped. The laborers on these projects were taken to Stettin.
